Memories From The PVAA 2000 Open Juried Show

In 2000 the Open Juried Show was proudly presented in the basement of the The Progress Bulletin newspaper. The art association was then located at 300 South Thomas Street in downtown Pomona which formerly housed the daily paper. PVAA offices and main gallery were located in the portion which was previously used for typesetting the newspaper. Across the hall from the office was a fairly large space nicknamed Prog-Space Gallery, which displayed the annual Open Juried Show.

SU CHEATHAM Garners 'First Place' Monthly Show Honors

My passion will always be Printmaking, the process of; gouging and scratching a drawing into the surface of a block of wood or linoleum, brayering the wet ink onto the surface of the wood, rubbing the paper to the inked block with the baren, and hand pulling each print is a very sensual and magical experience.

My art is personally inspired by cousin Herman, a printmaker, who before me, spent his entire life communicating through his own art. As a Jew during WWII, he questioned everything in his world including his own existence. His work reflects his internal and external affects of his environment. I recall as a teenager my fascination and wonderment regarding our purpose on this planet. Even as a child and into adulthood I understood the power of making art to being as important as the air I breathe. It is the way I communicate and share, at times my most vulnerable self.

My formal education in art afforded me the opportunity to continue my personal journey as an artist and Educator. While maintaining a consistent income as a classroom art teacher for the past 30 years, I was committed to sharing my passion for art with thousands of students young and old. Retired from the public school classroom I continue to share my art and education in my private studio and local public locations. As an artist, I have the world at my fingertips. I'm not bound by the past or locked into the future. I can use my favorite medium or combine all other art media together. Art is very personal and very revealing, it is an extension of me and who I have become. And I am choosing to share this intimacy with you!
